DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election without traverse of Group I (claims 1-13 and 25-27) in the reply filed on 3/07/2008 is acknowledged.

Claims 14-24 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected invention, there being no allowable generic or linking claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The 35 USC 112 rejections have been withdrawn in light of the amendments to the claims filed on 10/10/2007.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 1-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Reynolds (5,364,369). Reynolds discloses a syringe (see at least Figures 1-16) comprising a syringe barrel (6) having an elongated body and chamber, an open proximal end, a distal end and a frusto-conically shaped tip (5) extending from the distal end having a tip passageway therethrough in fluid communication with the chamber, a rubber stopper (6) in fluid-tight engagement inside the barrel, an elongated plunger rod (10) defining a longitudinal axis and extending proximally from the stopper through the open end, and a flange (not numbered) at the proximal end, a tip cap (4) for sealing the passageway, and a flush solution (A) in the chamber, the inside diameter of the of the chamber designed to produce a low pressure, wherein the chamber contains no more than 3.5 ml of solution, and the solution can be saline or heparin lock, wherein the syringe is packaged in a sterile package as is well-known in the art, and wherein the barrel can include indicia as is well-known in the art.

Reynolds discloses making the barrel of the syringe wider and shorter than a standard syringe, but Reynolds does not disclose that the chamber has a diameter of 13.5mm and a length of 57 mm. These dimensions are deemed to be matters of design choice and are not given much patentable weight. It would have been prima facie obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify Reynolds with the dimensions recited in claims 1 because such a modification would have been considered a mere design consideration which fails to patentably distinguish over the prior art Reynolds.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 25-27 are allowed.

The double patenting rejection over US 6,361,524 has been obviated by the terminal disclaimer filed on 10/10/2007. The disclaimer is acknowledged and has been accepted.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-13 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
